We recruit the best students from across the country and provide them with the best possible learning experience. We cultivate a distinct competitive advantage by focusing on individual needs. Our size and focus give us the ability to interact with students, alumni and recruiters on a personal level. Recognizing that students come to SGT University with many different backgrounds, we seek to provide the highest-quality learning experience by tailoring the academic experience to individual student development. Our favorable 'faculty-to-student' ratio promotes a close-knit community with exceptional access to faculty and staff. We couple our high levels of access with a modular curriculum, 'point-of-need' learning and immersive experiences that deliver broad coverage of the most important subjects, while providing the opportunity for students to explore areas of interest in depth. Our 'personal-scale' advantage extends beyond graduation, as we support our alumni throughout their careers.

Our personal-scale approach allows us to refine each student's leadership skills through individual assessments, personal reflection, informed feedback, coaching and leadership experiences. Our scale also offers many more leadership roles per student than larger competitors, providing students the opportunity to practice and receive guidance on effective leadership. We believe our approach transforms students, making them better leaders of teams, organizations and industries.

Our strategic array of programs, offered by 19 Facilities, strengthen the breadth, depth, reach and responsiveness of our university. Our portfolio of programs serves a broad audience by addressing education needs at various stages of the career. Further, through our portfolio, we offer deeper expertise across our programs than any one program alone could support. The variety of programs also makes it possible for SGT University to impact society better and impact more industries and corporate partners too. We believe that our ability to develop and implement new programs provides us the opportunity to capitalize on changing market needs.

We, at SGT University, continue to believe that it is the thirst for new insights that produces high-impact research and creates an environment where faculty inspire students to look beyond simple answers, instilling the wonder and excitement of discovery. Accordingly, we attract and develop faculty with dual excellence in research and teaching. We encourage our faculty to push the frontiers of their fields, impacting both the theory and practice.

Job Shadow

Employers can play a significant role in helping young people to discover the world of work. Job shadowing allows a student to spend a few hours (2-4) or a full day (6-8) with a professional working in the student's area of career interest. The student has the opportunity to experience them first-hand what the job is like and can establish the confidence to ask informed questions. This type of experiential learning can help students to determine early on in their college career if they are on the right path.

Informational Interviews

Similarly, 'Informational Interviews' is a great way to help our students understand the world of work, careers, and employers. Informational interviews involve and allow a student to interview a professional about his/her work and career journey. The time commitment is minimal, 30-45 minutes. Some of the information students want to learn about includes career roadmap to the corporate leader's current position, a typical day for the corporate leader, the joys and challenges of his/her job, any recommendations that the corporate leader may have for someone working to pursue employment in the field, and the culture of his/her organization.

Externships

Through externships, which are training programs related to an area of academics or career interests that aim to give participants practical experiences in their area of interest. Externships are similar to internships, however, they tend to be shorter in duration, usually only a few days or a couple of weeks, and involve a combination job shadowing, informational interviewing, and possibly a brief hands-on experience. The goal of an externship is to provide students with additional insights into a specific career.

Encourage corporate to be featured on our Blog. Whether one is keen to be featured in an employer spotlight or be a guest writer blogging about career insights and industry-focused best practices, we want them.

Be an Employer in Residence

Promoting 'Be an Employer in Residence' where students will have the opportunity to spend one-on-one time with participating employers to ask other career-related questions that may not directly relate to that employer's organization/company; e.g. resume critiques, interview tips, how to ask for informational interviews and other areas of interest. This will be THEIR time with an employer. There is no better way to gain employer insight on "awkward" questions you have about career paths, company culture, answering challenging questions without fumbling for an answer.

Be a Mentor

We will encourage corporate leaders to get involved with students by volunteering to be Mentors. Students want to learn firsthand from professionals in their career fields of interest. These experiential learning opportunities are highly valued as they allow students to learn about careers and industries in a deeper and more meaningful way. These connections could involve a range of activities, including an informational interview, job shadowing, site visits, and resume reviews, mock interviews, or sharing your professional knowledge and experience. The commitment can be as little as one hour a semester, working with just one student or more than one student at a time.

Internally, we are establishing a Career Advisory Centre which will assume a different hat altogether so that students come mere handshake away. This will be followed up by the establishment of a Centre of Excellence for Industry Linkages.

Tutelage

Our campus is abuzz with several departments working in tandem with each other. Also, we have several projects going on ranging from infrastructure development to routine facilities management, mess operations, marketing & communication etc.

When young graduates step into the professional world, the expectation will be to deliver with little or no gestation period. Their managers will expect them to be well learned and hands-on. To deliver their future roles in a professional career(s), in addition to earning a degree, it is expected of graduates to have in-depth and detailed knowledge and understanding of the fundamental aspects without which no department can work at an optimum level and no project can be delivered in a timely fashion. They need to learn how to manage manpower, machine, and finances while delivering expertise.

To get these students (in small batches) involved in understanding fundamentals and intricacies of facilities management, HR process, Recruitment, Marketing & Communication, Sales, Finance, Accounts, Customer Services, Education Delivery, Personnel Management, Purchase, Inventory, Record-Keeping, Cafeteria Operations, Security & Vigilance, Filing, Archiving, Environment Conservation, Biochemistry, Forensic Science, Microbiology, Pharmacology, Pathology, etc. The students will need to invest time on live projects along with our multi-disciplinary teams to acquire these competencies which the cruel professional world will not allow them time for.

The program is titled 'TUTELAGE' and is conducted under the aegis of CRC in collaboration with all faculties (including Commerce & Management) across the university.
