Introduction of Course Credit and Grading System

The Evaluation system at the University is based on the internationally prevalent credit system continuous evauation methods in all the programmes. The Salient features of the system are:

• Flexibility for students to progress at suitable pace depending on individual interest and ability.

• Continuous evaluation of student's progress.

• Award of grades in a course depending on overall performance of a student.

• Performance measurement by number of earned credits (E.C.), Semester Grade Point Average (SGPA) and Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA). The use of grades helps in achieving a reasonable spread of total marks for a grade and in reducing variations due to evaluation with different teachers.

• Award of degree to a student on the basis of total E.C.s and value of CGPA.
